Making the right connection

Some six million visitors a year view the Sistine Chapel, so tracking through several galleries and passing endless art treasures on your way to Michelangelo's masterpiece, is not the time to have your head buried in a guide book. We suggest connecting with LivItaly Tours to make the most of your visit to the Sistine Chapel.

Smart planning Skipping the lines and taking a direct route while catching many of the collection highlights are just some of the advantages. Offering an early entrance private tour of the Sistine - or an afternoon visit timed to dodge most of the crowds - their small group tours (guaranteed to be no more than 6 people) help you to spend time within the city walls wisely - just specify your interests and let LivItaly tours do the rest. Insider track From the moment you make contact you feel that you're in experienced hands. Kristin, from the friendly family team who own the company, personally greets as many of the tour groups as possible, it's a personal touch that continues - when a well-versed local guide shares information and picks up on the interests of the intimate group - allowing you to focus on the artwork, not the crowds.

Beyond the Sistine Retrace your own Italian adventure in the magnificent gallery of maps, where 40 detailed frescoes, from the 1580s, line the walls; gaze at the gilded bronze statue of Hercules or, enjoy tales of life in one of the world's smallest sovereign states. Under the dome: After visiting the Sistine and museum, the tour continues in St Peter's Basilica where more facts are linked together - creating a balanced and memorable visit. Our Thoughts In the last 30+ years we have visited the Vatican several times, but we came away from this tour saying 'I didn't know that'. So heads up - and out of your guide book - we encourage you to make the right connection, don't just visit Italy, arrange to LivItaly too!
